

PRBO's San Francisco Bay Research Center and Headquarters

Located at the northernmost reaches of San Francisco Bay, PRBO's new San Francisco Bay Research Center and Headquarters will sit at the southeast edge of Petaluma's urban growth boundary in an office/light industrial park that is surrounded on three sides by protected open space. It will be built on the last undeveloped parcel that sits directly next to Shollenberger Park, a popular haven for birders and nature enthusiasts on the Petaluma River.

Location of PRBO's new San Francisco Bay Research Center and Headquarters, Petaluma, CA

The Center will also be adjacent to a 261-acre parcel of newly protected wetlands and uplands recently acquired by the City of Petaluma where officials plan to build new trails and an outdoor wetlands classroom. The parcel includes uplands with a freshwater marsh as well as tidal mud flats along the Petaluma River.